Dear Chairman & Commissioners:

Attacking the poor by limiting their access to internet is nothing more than your way of attempting to control those that are less fortunate than yourselves. It is about bullying other people, which the president of the United States of America endorses.

The idea of censoring the internet is a nasty move by all of you.

I am making sure that I spread the word about this by contacting each of my friends personally and not through some internet survey.

Sincerely,
Cynthia Gardner
